

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

I want rules preventing media consolidation to be strengthened, not weakened. It is already very difficult to access information on divergent viewpoints due to the amount of media consolidation that currently exists. This is dangerous to our democracy. Weakening rules that prevent media consolidation is a step towards a totalitarian government. It is un-American.
